

Reaping What You Sow

What a person sows, that's what he will reap.

Life is really simple. If you want to grow apples you need to plant apple seeds.

Why should we expect anything different for our own lives?

What are you reaping in your life? (friends, family relationships, financial, job, etc)

How are you satisfied with what you are reaping?

What are you doing to 'plant' into your dreams to make them a reality?

What things, people or areas in your life do you need to sow into so that you can reap the harvest?
